THE LABOR government in Great Britain plans to build new homes for two and a half millions of people, the building program to extend over fifteen years. Conservatives in this country wonder why a rich nation like Great Britain put in a Labor government. That building program is part of the answer.

AN EXPEDITION of the National Geographic Society, traveling up the Yellow River in China on a raft made of seventy-two inflated yak skins, explored the territory of the "Fo Guns," or "earth men," strange Chinese, with curly yellow hair.

One marvelous thing is discovered by the explorers. Women among the "Fo Guns" pay no attention whatever to age, and keep no track of it. And the age of the women seems to make no difference to the men. Women unmarried wear their hair in twenty to thirty thick braids, artificially thickened. When they marry they cut them off. But age is ignored.

The "Fo Gun" ladies are only a little ahead of their time. The day is coming when all women will ignore age, instead of letting age obliterate them.

CONGRESS will adjourn by agreement with President Coolidge, on June 7. Then will begin the real business of politics—getting elected again. It hasn't been a pleasant session of Congress, with its Tea Pot Dome, its selling and scolding of the naval oil reserves and its other features, and you will be glad to see the session die.

IN BALTIMORE, a farmer named Meyeris is said to be plowing up a good wheat field with a sub-soil plow, having been told there is gold in his land. He won't find gold but if he plows deeply enough, and plows his wheat under, he will improve his soil, and increase his farm's value.

IN THE second part of Faust, Goethe tells of the farmer pouring deep because, under the Emperor's law, he was allowed to keep all buried treasure "turned over by the plow." That was probably an ingenious scheme to make the farmer plow deeper, make his soil richer, and thus be able to pay heavier taxes. There is too much thin scratching of the earth in this country.

IT PAYS to understand mechanics, and the art of good conscientious machine building. The Dodge brothers, typical American citizens, devoted their youth to studying mechanical construction. They hadn't a thousand dollars to begin on. But they had the good fundamental ideas. Both unfortunately are dead, the estate of one, Horace Dodge, amounts to more than $30,000,000, all made in a few years and all made by good, honest work.

All Americans outside of the insane asylums are glad to see such big fortunes as that, made by giving value.

TWO QUESTIONS that interest politicians are these:

Can the Democrats be persuaded to give up the rule that compels a man to get two-thirds of all the

OFFERS CUT IN ELECTRIC LIGHT COST

Edison Co.'s Proposal Would Amount to an Ultimate Decrease of About 20 P. C.

After a seven year battle the Boston American for low electric-light rates the Edison Electric Illuminating Company has offered to:

1.—Reduce immediately the household price of 5 electricity from 9½ to 9 cents per kilowatt hour.

2.—On December 1, next, cut the price further, from 9 to 8½ cents.

3.—One year later make another cut, from 8½ cents to 8 cents per kilowatt hour.

When the Boston American filed a petition for a reduction in the prices demanded by the lighting trust some years ago the rate was 10 cents. The ultimate cut now suggested by the Edison Illuminating Company, therefore, will amount to about 20 per cent.

The Boston American, before withdrawing its petition, on file with the Public Utilities Commission, will give the proposed schedule most careful consideration.

SIGNIFICANT SAVING.

The proposed reduction in household rates is said to indicate a saving to the people of Boston of $3,000,000 annually up to December 1, 1925, and $8,500,000 annually after that date over the war-time rates, which had been increased in 1918 to about 12 cents.

In addition to these anticipated savings, it also may be fairly pointed out that the reductions already made in lighting rates since the American began its fight, have saved to consumers at least $3,500,000 more.

Included in the company's proposal also was the offer to waive claims of $600,000 against the city of Boston, with the understanding that, beginning on June 1, the city will pay such rates for street lighting as are fixed by the Public Utilities Commission and paid by other municipalities.

BELIEVED VICTIMS OF 'TWINE' SLAYER

LOUISE LAWSON AND "DOT" KING

The mystery of the brutal strangling to death of Miss Lawson, a Southern beauty who had become one of the "butterflies" of New York night life, and of Dorothy King (in inset) is believed to be nearer solution following the arrest of Harry Lasser, a man of many aliases, who has confessed strangling almost to death and robbing Mrs. Howard Johnson of $8,000 jewels in a New York hotel where she was a frequent guest of himself and a mystery woman whom the police are seeking. A piece of strong twine with which Mrs. Johnson was strangled is declared to be exactly like that used by the murderer of the Lawson and King girls.

GEM THIEF LINKED IN SLAYINGS

Piece of Twine Furnishes a Clew for the Deaths of Dot King and Louise Lawson

By CORINNE RICH

New York, May 15 (Universal).—A little piece of strong twine may be the means of bringing to justice a man or a group of men responsible for the murders of Dorothy King and Louise Lawson, Broadway butterflies, and for uncounted recent assaults and robberies.

When Harry Lasser, alias Bohan, Jackson, Roth, Drent, and other names was arrested for drugging, looting and robbing Mrs. Howard Johnson, wife of a writer of musical plays, detectives declared the strong twine that bound Mrs. Johnson's throat and feet was similar to that used in the cases of the two slain girls.

REOPEN MURDER PROBE

Lasser confessed the Johnson affair, and the murder cases, considered among the unsolved crime mysteries are being reopened with vigor.

Mrs. Johnson's story of robbery is similar in details to the other cases. Her throat was bound so tightly with wire that unconsciousness quickly followed. Her feet were likewise bound.

She might have strangled to death, as the "butterflies" did, but she revived unassisted after two hours and hurried to the police with a startling story.

She had been introduced a few weeks ago by a man well known on Broadway to a Mr. and Mrs. Harry Drent. The acquaintance grew pleasantly and Mrs. Johnson was several times in their company.

WAS THEIR "GUEST."

Monday she was their guest at breakfast in their hotel. After breakfast and an afternoon's automobile drive, the three returned to the hotel where Mrs. Johnson was asked to stay for dinner.

The man suddenly sprang on Mrs. Johnson, she told the police, bound her with the cord, and escaped while she was unconscious. She missed three diamond rings, valued at $8,000.

Dorothy King, she of the bright life and rare jewels, had been tied in similar fashion and her apart-

KNEELAND DROPS DEAD IN OFFICE

Superintendent of the Public Buildings Victim of Acute Indigestion at City Hall

Fred J. Kneland, superintendent of public buildings, dropped dead today in his office at City Hall from acute indigestion.

The superintendent was in conference with a contractor when he slumped out of his chair and fell to the floor, dead.

Frederick Ward, chief clerk in the building department, ran in to the office again and summoned Dr. Frederick Bailey of the health department. Dr. Bailey pronounced Mr. Kneeland dead.

F. J. Kneeland

For several weeks the city official had been under a physician's treatment for a digestive disorder, but otherwise he appeared today to be in his usual good health.

WITH CITY 12 YEARS.

Only a short time before the conference in which he died, he had conferred with Mayor Curley regarding events this afternoon in connection with laying the cornerstone of the new Hyde Park police station.

The late building commissioner is survived by his widow, a daughter and a son. The widow and daughter live at No. 16 Wenonah street, Forest Hills. The son, who is in the theatrical business, left Boston only a few days ago on a trip through the West.

Mr. Kneeland was fifty-eight years of age and active in labor circles. For seventeen years he had been a member of the city and, since 1916, had been superintendent of public buildings. He was appointed by Mayor Curley and reappointed by both Mayor Peters and Mayor Curley.

He was born in the South End, in the section known as "Old Irish Yard," and when he became old enough became a painter. He joined the Knights of Labor organization and became a leader.

In 1901 he was president of the Baltimore painters' organization, one of the divisions of the Knights, when they were amalgamated through efforts of the A. F. of L.

HONORED BY LABOR.

Every office within the gift of Boston painters had been held by Mr. Kneeland. He had been twice president of the Boston Central Labor Union and three times was president of the Boston Building Trades Council. As a contractor in later years for the city, he knew labor from both sides.

He represented his painters' local at many labor conventions, both local and national. He was a member of the old Aldermanic board for two terms.

CAN'T STOP BETTING, LANE SAYS

Representative Shea, at Hearing, Declares Gamblers Are Abusive and "No Good"

Charges that open gambling at boxing bouts in Boston is due to the laxity of the police, and that a member of the Boston Police Department is one of the owners of the Boston Arena, were made before the Joint Rules Committee of the Legislature today.

The charges were made by Senator John F. Shea of Holyoke, speaking for his order calling for an investigation by the Legislature of the conduct of boxing matches.

Senator Shea said spectators were annoyed by the language of "cheap gamblers" whom he characterized as cowards and no-good citizens, and that unless they were put out of business boxing would be killed.

In reply, Daniel W. Lane, member of the Boxing Commission, while declaring everything was being done to stop the nuisance, said it was practically impossible to curb gambling.

Mr. Lane added that gambling at the hockey games last winter was worse than it ever was at baseball games or boxing bouts.

GAMBLERS ABUSIVE.

Isaiah H. Shain, an advocate of open air boxing, told the committee that the majority of the bouts were arranged by gamblers in what is referred to as "Tin Can Alley," in the rear of Young's Hotel.

Senator Shea began his remarks by telling of a recent visit made to the Arena with two guests, one of them also a member of the upper branch of the Legislature.

He said he purchased three coats in a box, only to find it occupied by gamblers.

An usher, he said, refused to dis-

(1) Alamac Hotel, where Johnson robbery occurred; (2) home of Edith Ford, who identified suspect Lasser; (3) home of Louise Lawson; (4) home of Dorothy King.

Lasser is said to have taken part, the binding material was the same.

CONFESSES TO POLICE.

Lasser, traced through a bottle of comic syrup left by his hasty room, confessed taking the Johnson rings "to get money for my lawyer in Washington," where he is on bail on a burglary charge.

He was identified by Mrs. Johnson as the man whom she had considered a friend.

Mrs. Nellie Ford, her daughter, and a grandchild declared him to be the man who a short time ago went into their apartment, with three companions, held them up and took away over $200, overlooking $40,000 worth of jewelry hidden in a vase.

That is the man who pointed a pistol and said he would kill me if I didn't stop crying," declared the child, seven-year-old Sherly Monroe, identifying Lasser.

Thomas Kane, elevator man in the apartment house where the Lawson girl was killed, partially identified the prisoner as one of the two men who supposedly delivered a case of liquor at the Lawson abode the morning of the murder.

Police are seeking the woman who was with Lasser when he "entertained" Mrs. Johnson.

Lasser is what the police call a "moll hunter," a name for a criminal who preys on bejeweled women. The method of "moll hunting" seems to be to frequent smart cafes, rock out the women most richly crowned, make their acquaintance or follow them home, and then rob them.

Such a criminal, who works in an organized group, does not stop at murder.

Mr. Adams announced, in welcoming the employes and guests, that at the present rate of progress the Connor Company would be owned entirely by employes within the next five years.

In addition to the banquet and speech-making, an entertainment was presented. The officers of the J. T. Connor Company occupied places of honor. The guests included W. Hadkins, New England manager of the National Biscuit Company, and James Powers of the same company.

Trucks Now May Go to Portland Under Mass. Licenses

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin announced today that hereafter authorities of the State of Maine will permit Massachusetts trucks to go through as far as Portland where they may be registered.

Recently Maine authorities ruled that trucks bearing Massachusetts registrations must have Maine registrations also. Following a conference between Registrar Goodwin and M. L. Wheeler, inspector of the Maine State Highway Police department, the new ruling was made.

In return, Registrar Goodwin ruled that Maine trucks coming into Massachusetts may drive either to Lawrence or Lynn, at both of which places there are permanent branch offices.

follow three that came to light yesterday of seniors who were suspended for smoking.

Smoking is forbidden by the college rules in dormitories or elsewhere.

The three girls are reported on their way home. Their identity is being withheld by college authorities.

Although dropped from this year's roll, they will be allowed to make application to return at mid-year next year, finish their courses and receive their degrees.

One condition will be demanded of them if they are granted reinstatement, however—that they promise to banish the weed for the rest of their college days.

Other violations of the rules in respect to smoking by students are under investigation by the college faculty and the student council, it was reported.

Professor William Allen Nelson, while declining to discuss the situation in detail, said that the suspensions of the five seniors is the result also of other infractions of rules in which the girls were involved.

forth the gamblers, and finally placed the party in another box, which contained six other men, although the total capacity is only six.

Senator Shea said the gamblers made their odds openly and apparently had decided which boxers were to win.

Throughout the bouts, he stated, the boxers not favored by the gamblers were subjected to indecent abuse, in which the referee shared when he ruled against their favorite.

HIT IN FACE.

Eventually, he said, a police sergeant was disturbed by the remarks of the gamblers, and struck one in the face when he refused to stop his noise.

The sergeant then ejected another gambler, who also interfered with his enjoyment of the bouts, according to Senator Shea.

When the entertainment was over, the latter said, he and his friends were held up 10 minutes while the gamblers liquidated their bets.

Senator Shea declared the same things prevailed at ball games, where "cheap gamblers, some of them dope fiends and others police stools," made themselves obnoxious.

"One of the men interested in the Arena," he said, "is a member of the Boston police force. He is a good man. Once he took a stand against the gamblers at baseball parks.

"I am told the Arena was leased to him, turned over to his brother, and then sublet back to him by his brother. In fact I understand there is a sub-police station at the Arena, but there is any place where there should be no gambling it is at the Arena.

POLICE LAX.

"If we have in mind public decencies and allegiance to the laws of Massachusetts, we cannot shut our eyes to these conditions. There has already been too much covering up in this affair.

"There are certain things in this matter almost beyond the scope of the Boxing Commission. I have in mind the laxity of the Boston police in the matter. The Boxing Commission is not so much at fault as the police."

Asked by Senate Chairman Frank G. Allen if he did not think it advisable to leave the matter to the Boxing Commission in view of the fact that the new member of that body had considerable experience in the past, Senator Shea replied:

"A man who has been engaged in particular pursuits finds it hard to enforce the law against his associates. I am not saying the new member has any connection with the boxing game at present."

Commissioner Lane, who arrived late, was given a resume of Senator Shea's testimony by President Allen.

CASES NOL PROSSED.

The commissioner said had he been in the same position as Senator Shea he would have gotten justice without going to the Legislature. He said he would have gone to the box office or to one of the members of the Boxing Commission at the ringside.

Commissioner Lane said since boxing was legalized police officers were present at all bouts and many arrests had been made for gambling. He said convictions had been obtained in the lower courts but in the upper courts the gamblers usually got nol prosses or were acquitted.

Referring to the statement that he as a new member might not care to enforce the law against his former associates, Commissioner Lane gave several examples of action which he has taken since joining the commission.

He denied that matches were made by gamblers in "Heel Alley," as he called it, stating they were made by the clubs to draw the public which doesn't consist entirely of gamblers.

CAN'T CURB BETTING.

Commissioner Lane said he and his associates were always glad to enforce the law at boxing bouts, but that it was almost impossible to curb betting. He said, in response to a question, that the police do cooperate.

Senator Shea, in rebuttal, said it was not incumbent on a spectator at a bout to call for police protection. "That is all bunk," he declared. "The gamblers occupy the same sections night after night. In the Arena they are opposite the entrance, and in Mechanics Hall in the balcony.

"I do say the police have not cooperated. Plain clothes men could clean up the nuisance as the gamblers are cowards and no-good citizens. I make these charges not as a reformer but as one who believes in boxing. Honest boxing for honest spectators requires volition from those in charge and not from the patrons."

RUM SHIPS FLEE

Cape Ann, along Still Wagon Bank.

Captain King of the Coast Guard cutter Pioneer, principal occupation taking care of cable communication, was taking a day off from his customary work today when he sighted four rum runners lined up alongside a liquor ship, the British steamer Johnstown.

The rum-runners "put-putted" away like a flock of Lewis guns when they spotted the revenue vessel bearing down on them.

They separated, two going in one direction and two in another. Captain King's boat overhauled two of them after a chase of three-quarters of a mile.

No resistance was made and the two boats, the 743-C and 794-C were taken in tow. Aboard the 743-C was found 199 cases of alcohol. The 794-C carried nothing of a contraband nature. The 743-C had loaded its cargo from the Cuban steamer Mimina and was scheduled to unload at Provincetown.

For a mile behind the two boats that escaped was a string of cases of alcohol and whiskey. This apparently had been heaved overboard by the fugitives to lighten their craft.

The four occupants of the vessels captured gave their names as Gjorano Dimicuri, Giovanni Cassasi, Serafina Grandazza and Lorenzo Scholo, all of The North End. They were arraigned today before U. S. Commissioner Jenney, charged with smuggling.

Notwithstanding no liquor was found aboard the 794C the government will make a test case of this seizure and endeavor to show intent to violate the liquor law by presence alongside the liquor ship.

RUSSIAN ACCUSES U. S. OF INTERFERING

Moscow, May 15.—(A.P.)—The warning issued by the American and French Legations in Peking to the Chinese Foreign Office against any agreement encroaching upon the rights of the stock and bondholders and creditors of the Chinese Eastern Railway is termed by M. M. Karakhan characterized the action of the United States as fresh proof that America was exercising inimical pressure to prevent the re-establishment of friendly relations between Russia and China.

GIRLS FOUND IN WRECKAGE OF AUTO

Two Dorchester girls, found by a passing motorist in the wreckage of an automobile in a ravine at the Blue Hills reservation, are at the Boston City Hospital suffering from numerous injuries.

According to the police, young man who had taken the girls riding in the machine disappeared and deserted them after the accident, but this is denied by Albert Gorello, No. 12 Downer street, Dorchester, driver of the car.

Dorothy Thorpe

The injured girls are Dorothy Thorpe, 19, of No. 9 Howard street, Dorchester, who suffered a fracture of the collarbone, and Edwina Sullivan, 21, of No. 92 Dakota street, Dorchester, who suffered multiple bruises.

AUTO WAS RENTED.

The car, wrecked when it struck a tree, was the property of the American Auto Livery Company of No. 11 Court street, Newtonville, a firm which rents machines by the hour.

According to employes of the company, the auto was rented by Joseph Gorello, brother of the young man who was driving when the accident occurred.

According to Albert Gorello, who was driving on his brother's registration card, he and another young man became acquainted with the girls at Upham's Corner in Dorchester.

"We did not know who they were and never did learn their names," says Gorello.

SAYS GIRLS DESERTED.

"The girls got out of the machine only seconds up a hill after the crash," said Gorello. "They left the machine and walked away from us. That is the last we saw of them. They deserted us—we certainly did not desert them."

According to Fred L. Peakham of No. 129 Norwell street, Dorchester, who took the girls to the hospital, he was driving through the reservation when he came upon the wreckage. He found the two girls in the wrecked car, dazed and alone, and at once took them in his own machine to the hospital.

RESERVED DECISION ON REDMOND ASSETS

The fight by receivers of the defunct brokerage firm of G. F. Redmond & Co., Inc., to have George F. Redmond, James F. Lamont and Arthur Diggins, officers of the company, turn over $2,000,000 assets, claimed to have been fraudulently concealed, ended today in United States District Court.

Judge James M. Morton, Jr., took the case under advisement and announced he would give a decision next week.

Spring, Gentle at Last, Gives Boston 64 Degrees at Noon

Gentle Spring is trying to laugh off the shabby treatment she has accorded Boston of late.

The balmiest weather of the year and incidentally the warmest weather to be found anywhere north of the Gulf states, greeted the Hub today.

At 8 a. m. the weather bureau thermometer indicated a temperature of 62 degrees in Boston. At the same time there was a temperature of 56 degrees in Washington, 56 in New York, 52 in Chicago, 56 in St. Louis, 46 in Kansas City, 64 in Salt Lake City and 56 in San Francisco. At noon the temperature was 64 degrees in Boston.

Fair weather is predicted for tonight and tomorrow, the first fair weather prognostication the Boston Weather bureau has made in more than a week. The temperature is expected to get somewhat cooler tonight, with fresh to moderate westerly winds.

MYSTERIOUS WOMAN NOW IN HARRIS CASE

Mrs. Holland, Whereabouts Unknown, Said to Have Received Banker's "Letter"

New York, May 15.—A mysterious Mrs. Holland, first name and address unknown, was said today to be the woman who had given to Mrs. Elaine Lee Harris the letter which caused her arrest Tuesday night on a charge of second degree forgery preferred by her husband, Beverly D. Harris, a former vice-president of the National City Bank.

The letter, which Mrs. Harris had declared her husband had written to another woman on the last day of his marriage annulment trial, was given her by Mrs. Holland, she said. Mrs. Holland, she added, had been introduced to her by another woman whose name she did not mention.

The letter which the former banker was supposed to have written was addressed to "Dear Elaine." Mrs. Harris said she believed Mrs. Holland lived in Detroit but added she had little hope of finding her that she might appear as a witness in her behalf at the forgery hearing.

Rayford T. Alley, of counsel to Harris, declined to discuss the nature of the evidence against Mrs. Harris but Assistant District Attorney Alexander said that handwriting experts would testify the letter alleged to have been written by Harris was a tracing of words and phrases cut out of letters Harris wrote his wife before their separation and then pasted together.

Max D. Steuer, the attorney who represented Mrs. Harris in the annulment proceedings, no longer is connected with her interests. Mr. Steuer said he did not want any conclusions to be drawn by any one concerning his withdrawal from the case.

Mrs. Harris, who was released on bail yesterday after having spent the night in a cell, is to be arraigned tomorrow on the forgery charge. She is now in seclusion.

"BEGGARS' UNION" TO BE DRIVEN OUT OF BOSTON BY POLICE

ARREST OF DIAMOND WEARER BETRAYED BIG GRAFT

The "Beggars' Union" is going by the board in Boston.

A drive on beggars and panhandlers, as a result of the arrest of Edgar P. Nelson, who went to his daily begging wearing a diamond and returned home in a taxi, has been opened in the Hub.

Three beggars and panhandlers, taken in one "grab" by Special Officer Hugh Sullivan of the Hanover street station, working in plain clothes, will spend a four months' vacation on Deer Island as a result of the drive.

The police declare they have unearthed a systematized scheme of begging and panhandling, in which lookouts are used by the mendicants to warn of approaching police. But the lookouts slip up on plainclothes men.

Each beggar or panhandler employs two lookouts, one on each end of the block in which he works. He is informed of the approach of a "harness bull" and all operations cease until the policeman has gone by. Then it is resumed.

The drive, it is believed, will rid the Hub of the nuisance.

ALL-AMERICANISM CONFERENCE OPENS

New York, May 15.—Jewels valued at between $20,000 and $30,000 were stolen from the West 72nd street apartment of Lara Sonderson, Musical Review actress, on May 8, it became known today, despite efforts of the police to keep the robbery a secret.

The theft was committed by thieves who had lured the actress from her apartment by a telephone message that her husband was seriously ill.

HARDING PAID FOR PRIVATE RUM PROBE

Personally Financed Investigation When Government Failed, Sleuth Testifies

Washington, May 15 (I.N.S.)—New light was thrown on the methods and policies of President Warren G. Harding today, when H. L. Scaife, a former Department of Justice agent, testified before the Daugherty Committee that Harding personally financed a private investigation of liquor violations in 1922, in order to obtain means of compelling stricter enforcement.

The investigation was ordered by Harding, Scaife said, "when the Treasury Department and the Department of Justice apparently were unable to enforce the law."

"Several hundred indictments were brought as a result of Harding's investigation," Scaife said.

BOBBED GIRL IS GONE; SO IS HIS $750 RING

Hyde Park Man Lets Affable Stranger Try It on in Scollay Square Movie

The smooth chatter and slick trick ery of a bobbed hair girl lured Joseph F. Kleinsteiber of Land street, Hyde Park, a $750 diamond ring, Kleinsteiber reported at police headquarters today.

Kleinsteiber, a youth in his twenties, said he met the girl on Hanover street and took her to a Scollay square movie show. He didn't inquire her name.

It just happened that a light played on Kleinsteiber's big diamond and reflected into the eyes of the girl.

"How she admired that diamond," Kleinsteiber told the desk sergeant. "She just had to try on the ring. So I let her."

Just then the girl thought of a telephone call she had to make. "Please hold my hat," she said to Kleinsteiber. "I'll be back in a minute."

It was a long minute. Kleinsteiber gave the hat to the police today. It is a "flower style hat" with a long neck scarf and the kind of crepe decorations the police matron said doesn't stand for mourning for the wearer.

PARDON DENIED

before the Daugherty Investigating Committee.

The opinion ordered that Grossman be taken in custody on sentence of a year in jail for contempt decreed by former Federal Judge Kenesaw M. Landis. Grossman was sentenced for contempt in a prohibition case.

The two judges gave separate opinions but concurred in effect.

The opinions of the attorneys-general of the United States in 1841, 1845 and 1852 as to the President's power of pardon were declared by Judge Wilkerson to have been based upon an erroneous assumption that the President stood in a somewhat similar position toward the United States courts as the King of England toward the English courts because even the King's power was restricted.

"AUTHORITY DESTROYED."

"The power to pardon for contempt is the power to destroy judicial authority," said Judge Wilkerson.

"Nor is it permissible to draw an artificial distinction based upon the method which must be employed or the form of the mandate which must be used in dealing with obstructions of judicial power.

"Judicial authority is destroyed and the function of the courts as the guardians of the constitution is impaired in just the same way by an act in defiance of the courts' prohibition as by the refusal to perform an act until compelled by the courts."

Grossman never had been taken into custody when the presidential pardon came.

DEATH BLOW

"To allow such power in the Executive is to strike a death blow at the independence of the judiciary," said Judge Carpenter in his opinion.

"The power to punish for contempt is inherent in, and essential to, the very existence of the judiciary. If the President be allowed to substitute his discretion for that of the courts in this vital matter, then truly the President becomes the ultimate source of judicial authority.

"We are of the opinion that under the Constitution, the executive cannot draw to himself all the real judicial power of the nation by controlling the inherent and essential attribute of that power—the authority to punish for disobedience of the orders of the court.

"The motion of the defendant, based upon the Presidential pardon, to modify the order of this court so as to eliminate the jail sentence is denied, and the marshal is ordered to take the defendant in custody and an order of commitment may issue."

REAL ESTATE MAN GIVEN SIX MONTHS

James H. Stewart, real estate operator of Upton street, Roxbury, was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction today in Municipal Court, for refusing to return $50 to Mrs. Agnes Sobless of No. 32 Dartmouth street, who had paid him that amount, on June the purchase of a house. Mrs. Sobless testified it was a temporary payment, to be returned to her in case the deal was not completed, but that Stewart refused.

"ZONES OF SILENCE" TO BE TESTED IN BLAST

Paris, May 15.—Ten tons of explosive will be exploded tonight at the Courtine Camp, in the center of France. The explosion will be one of a number of elaborate tests in an attempt to solve the mystery of the "zones of silence" first noticed during the World War, when it was found that the sound of heavy gunfire was inaudible in certain places although heard distinctly in others farther away.

Miss Frances Webster, of No. 387 Hammond street, Chestnut Hill, was before Judge Connelly, in Brighton Court today, charged with having driven her automobile 33 miles an hour and with having passed several cars on the right-hand side.

Motorcycle Policeman Daniel Donaghue told the court he had chased her for one-half mile along Commonwealth avenue, through to the Reservoir, and that she laughed at him when he overhauled her and requested her license.

Her attorney said she had been driving automobiles for 15 years and had never been in any difficulty before.

The case was filed, the judge admonishing her to be more careful.

Smart Set to Stage Italian Street Fair at Chestnut Hill, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN

A 1830 Italian street fair promises to attract a large throng to the Chestnut Hill estate of the Edwin S. Websters on Saturday, June 7.

A group of prominent folk, headed by Miss E. Boyd Houghton and Mrs. Chandler Hovey are staging the affair to benefit the Trustees' Aid Society.

The entire front of Hunnewell street, facing the Webster estate, will be roped off. One side will be lined with booths, brightly decked with buntings and flags of green, white and red. On the other side of the street there will be all sorts of games, both for children and their Papas and Mammas.

The all-important bidding will have its day, and there will be plenty of ice cream cones and soft drinks. Mrs. Richard Harte, eldest daughter of the Websters, is in charge of the booths, while her sister, Miss Polly Webster, and Mrs. Gruston King, head the flower vendors.

Several ponies and a donkey—they can all do the most astonishing tricks—will be on hand to amuse everyone and give the youngsters rides. A Punch and Judy show is also on the list of attractions.

Perhaps the most important feature for the "younger set" will be a doll carriage parade, which already has numerous entrants. A prize is offered for the best costume, the dollies and their nattiness to be dressed in one Lilliputian motif.

From 4 until 6—the fair begins at 2 and closes at 5—the lads and their swains will dance away under a huge marquis to be erected on the grounds, and in the evening dancing will be resumed in the Webster ballroom.

Mrs. Gelston King

Mrs. J. Mott Hallowell will look after the tea, which will be served on the terrace, and Richard Harte is procuring a formidable array of tennis stars for the tournament to be held that afternoon.

There will be booths for hats, candy, "bargains," dairy products, cake, flowers, cigarettes and fancy work, with Mrs. Oliver Ames, Jr., Mrs. Frederick W. Bush, Mrs. Arthur Moore, Mrs. William H. Coolidge, Mrs. Percival L. Sinclair, Mrs. Russell Codman among the smart folk presiding at them.

PROMINENT among the younger-marrieds along the North Shore for the coming season will be Mr. and Mrs. William H. Dexter (Constance V. R. Thayer).

They have taken the Hugh Jenney, atop the hill from the Harrison mansion in West Manchester. Last Summer they occupied the Philip Dexter's "Boulderwood" in Manchester, while Mr. and Mrs. Dexter were abroad.

MISS POLLY WEBSTER

Miss Polly Webster, prominent among the buds of the past season, will head the group of fair flower vendors at the street fair set for June 7.

Society Notes

MR. AND MRS. FRANCIS B. CROWNSHIELD, who is spending the Winter in Boca Grande, Fla., will occupy "Seaside Farm," their Marblehead place, for the Summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kennedy Morse have been spending a few days in New York at the Lorraine.

Messrs. John Gardner Coolidge, 2nd, Robert G. Stone, George S. Weld, A. Sherman Hill and Jos. J. Williams, Jr., all of Boston, will be ushers at the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Armstrong and Eric Alan McCouch. The wedding will take place near Philadelphia at the country home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Luce.

Mrs. Henry Clay Frick and Miss Helen C. Frick will arrive at their Pride's Crossing estate on June 1 for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus La Patterson will return to New York next month from their trip abroad. They will spend the Summer at Southampton.

Dr. and Mrs. George P. Denny are planning to open their Manchester place on the 28th of this month.

LIMIT BISHOPS' STAY AT POST TO 8 YEARS

Methodists Vote for Measure That Some Declare Will Decrease Efficiency

Springfield, May 15.—The limitation to eight years of the bishops' tenure in any one area, residence in this country, formerly indefinite, was approved by the Methodist Episcopal general conference here today. The change was regarded as radical and opponents of the measure said it would decrease the effectiveness of Episcopal supervision.

The resolution as adopted read:

"The general conference instructs the committee on Episcopacy that in assigning bishops to residences this committee shall have in mind the maximum of continuous tenure to eight years in any given residence."

Bishop Hughes.

The resolution affects only the coming quadrennial, but the memorial for making the principle permanent is under consideration by the Episcopacy Committee. Among the bishops who may be affected by the ruling are Bishops Joseph F. Berry of Philadelphia, Theodore S. Henderson of Detroit, Luther B. Wilson of Norden, Edwin Holt Hughes of Madden and William F. McDowell of Washington.

Petitions for the retention of Bishop Hughesand Wilson have been filed by delegates from their respective areas.

"The Episcopacy committee has found that too long occupation of a residence does not make for the best fruitful service by the bishop or for the fullest development of the area," said Dr. G. Downey, chairman of the committee. "The change suggested will make for greater enthusiasm and efficiency."

The eight year principle subject to a clause in the resolution making "exceptional circumstances" was eliminated on the motion of Ray Allen of the Genesee, N. Y., delegation.

The conference approved the Episcopacy Committee's non-concurrence in memorials for the discontinuance of the area system, for the election of provisional bishops and for resuming the practice of electing missionary bishops. The committee's recommendation for more frequent changes in the presidential supervision of annual conferences by the bishops was approved.

Social World Heads Bow at Font of Cushing Baby

New York, May 15.—Few infants make their bow to the great world under such august patronage as with which attended the christening of Harry C. Cushing 4th. Little Master Cushing is the son of the former Cathleen Vanderbilt, who last June became the wife of Harry C. Cushing 3d.

No less a person than Mrs. Vanderbilt—who rules all of Newport and much of New York society—was a godmother at the ceremony, which took place at St. Patrick's Cathedral. She is the child's great-grandmother.

Ellin Mackay was the other godmother. Her father, Clarence Mackay, telegraph king, was a godfather, and Reginald C. Vanderbilt, the baby's maternal grandfather, acted in similar capacity.

Harry C. Cushing 4th was born April 2.

WOMEN CLUBS FAVOR ARMY AND NAVY

Members of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs at their annual convention at the New Ocean House, Swampscott, today went on record as favoring the entrance of the United States into the world court.

The women, from 500 clubs throughout the State, also resolved the United States should maintain an army and navy "sufficient to preserve the security and dignity of the country," and also approved the decision of the United States government to send representatives to the International opium conference.

The members also resolved to urge upon Congress the immediate need for the extension of the civil service system to members of the Prohibition Enforcement Bureau.

The name of Mrs. Frederick Glanier Smith was suggested for president for the coming year. Mrs. Joseph Leach of Walpole, Mrs. Clarthur Potter of Greenfield, Mrs. Clarence Clark of Monument Beach, Mrs. A. Franklin of Hampden are possible candidates for vice-president.

TUBERCULOSIS REMEDY IS REPORTED

Inhalation of Two Separate Gasses Destroys Germs, Berlin Physician Claims

Berlin, May 15, (Universal)—A new remedy for tuberculosis which, it is asserted, has already saved hundreds of lives, is attracting the attention of medical circles in Germany.

The remedy, called Phasmolysin, is the discovery of Dr. Robert Dahmer of Berlin. Dr. Dahmer stated that his remedy is based on experiments of two American doctors, M. B. Campbell and A. Wood, who discovered the radioactivity of the protoplasm.

The remedy consist of inhalation of two separate gases. According to Dr. Dahmer, the first one opens the bronchial tubes and helps to discharge matter. The second one in combination with the first, attacks the germs, dissolves their fatty armour and renders them innocuous.

WEDDING BELLS CERTAINLY DUE FOR LYTELL

Claire Windsor and Bert Distinctly Show Wounds of Cupid's Dart

New York, May 16 (By Universal Service)—Seems like love is just as grand as it ever was and that it will always out, even when movie folk are concerned.

You heard how Bert Lytell hemmed and hawed when asked if he were going to marry pretty Claire Windsor as soon as he's free from Mrs. Lytell. You also heard that Claire was absolutely mum on the subject. Claire was in Hollywood then, Bert in New York.

Bert Lytell Claire Windsor

Anyway, according to reports, the meals at the Hotel Algonquin are left absolutely untouched when Bert's feasting his eyes on his lady love, who, as well as he, is registered there. An onlooker says dinner usually goes off in this fashion if there's a third present:

Bert (to third party): "Yes, politics today are—Oh, Claire, you look simply gorgeous tonight—not in as chiphape—Claire, you're perfectly divine—a condition—Oh, what was I saying?"

Claire (to third party): "Oh, yes, Hollywood is—Bert, darling, don't you feel well—a pretty place to live in, but—Bert, you're not eating anything. I don't want you to become ill—Oh, er, what was I saying?"

And so it goes until the third party leaves them to themselves.

The romance between Miss Windsor and Mr. Lytell began out in Algeria in the desert, when they made "A Son of the Sahara" together.

NEW FRENCH DEPUTY TALKS ONLY GERMAN

Paris, May 16—The new French chamber is to have two sensational novelties—a deputy who addresses it in German, or the kind of German spoken in Alsace, and a deputy clad in the Breton variety of the garb of old Gaul.

M. Hueber, Communist deputy from Alsace is obliged to talk German because he cannot talk anything else.

Joseph Cadic, from Morbihan, wears the local fiscal costume, consisting principally of a kind of eton jacket with a waistcoat of white cloth, both elaborately embroidered in red. The rest of the 48 men are of black silk.

Why this Sale is possible

As manufacturers' agents and factory distributors we are enabled to take advantage of market conditions. We have taken over the stock of a great manufacturer and are selling it at absolute sacrifice prices. Unusual purchasing ability, combined with our low overhead, make possible this tremendous reduction to you.

Get best quality at less than wholesale

The few dollars saved on cheap, inferior furniture are more than offset by the lasting durability and pleasure afforded by quality home furnishings.

This time at least there is no excuse for you to have anything but the best. The prices asked for these high-grade suites, and other household goods, are far below those asked for inferior goods.

Lack of space prohibits mentioning in detail the hundreds of items in this price-slashing sale, but we urge an early call. Remember, everything offered in this sale is guaranteed to be as offered and will be sold for cash only. Deferred payments and charge accounts mean high prices—they must be paid for by the customer.

Our location is easy to find as we are opposite the North Station, at the corner of Causeway and Canal Streets. Our upstairs location, with thousands of feet of show space, is another reason for our price saving to you. For the convenience of customers we are open all this week until 8 P. M.

ACCUSES WEEKS IN CAPE COD CANAL 'STEAL'

Helping Belmont to "Unload" Worthless Canal on U. S., Declares Rep. Nelson

Charges that Secretary of War John W. Weeks "and other representatives of big business in public office" are attempting to unload the Cape Cod Canal upon the public at an outrageously high price have been made on the floor of Congress. The charge was made that the "Cape Cod raid" is being engineered through the Republican party by Weeks and through the Democratic organization by August Belmont. The subject is here discussed by the leader of the Liberal bloc, a veteran of eighteen years' service in the House.

By JOHN M. NELSON.

Member of Congress from Wisconsin.

Washington, May 15. (Universal)—President Roosevelt coined the terms "The Predatory Interests" and the "Powers that Prey." These freebooters had a field day in the House.

They put through the Cape Cod Canal deal, a most striking example of the greedy grasp on legislation of corporate self-interest enriching itself at the expense of the public with the bi-partisan aid of "faithful" representatives in Congress.

This Cape Cod Canal job is a significant illustration of the fact that Wall street has a bi-partisan hold upon both Republican and Democratic regulars and demonstrates the need of an independent Progressive group in the Congress to protect the interests of the public.

Three progressive Republicans exposed the deal. So did a like number of progressive Democrats, but Democratic leaders kept quiet. The secret is August Belmont, Tammany Democrat.

In vain will the votes be scanned to find a representative from New York city against this measure, other than the Progressive La Guardia.

BELMONT'S INFLUENCE.

Belmont and colleagues high in the financial district of New York city are the directors of the Cape Cod Canal Company.

This business speculation was undertaken shortly before the World War, but proved to be a financial failure. It became a tragic bit of wasted big business.

The stock never paid dividends, and is worse than worthless. The debt not only wipes out the value of the stock, but leaves a deficit of over $4,500,000.

The bonds are also unmarketable. Blocks are held by Belmont and associates. Some were sold to Massachusetts and New York people. The Canal Construction Company, made up of the same group of financiers, was created under the laws of Maine to construct the canal.

LIKE "WRECKERS."

It looks more like a wrecking than a construction company, judging by the debts contracted. It holds $2,500,000 in bonds which are not marketable.

Facing this plight these representatives of Big Business planned to unload the ditch on Uncle Sam.

They are interested in steamships carrying various kinds of freight, to Boston. Some steamship companies pay toll yearly above $150,000 a year. Free toll is given to the Boston Steamship Lines by this Cape Cod canal deal, an annual saving to some, ranging as high as $200,000 in toll fees. The people will not get a bit of the benefit.

Of course these steamship owners are on the job, too, to push this deal through Congress under various masks — life-saving, protecting property, and furthering commerce.

Seven years ago, John W. Weeks in the Senate got a rider put on the Rivers and Harbors Bill calling for an expenditure of only $5,000, but it served as a joker to commit the government to survey this ditch, to permit the Secretary of War to enter into a tentative contract for its purchase, or to start condemnation proceedings subject to ratification by Congress.

The Weeks rider has been worked hard by the Cape Cod Canal Company to put this deal through.

Those gentlemen persuaded President Wilson to take over the canal for war purposes. They tried to get Secretary of War Baker to give them a contract.

BAKER SAID $8,250,000.

He fixed the price in a tentative contract at $8,250,000.

The canal company refused to sell. Condemnation proceedings began. The jury awarded a large sum. The government appealed and the court of appeals reversed the award as excessive and there the unloading stopped.

STILL HOPES TO DEFER JAPS' EXCLUSION

Coolidge Still Believes Date Will Be Set After July 1 by Congress

Washington, May 15.—President Coolidge has not yet given up hope of defeating Japanese exclusion on July 1, the date insisted upon by Congress despite his disapproval, it was declared today at the White House.

"Three courses are open to the President; it was said, but no definite decision has been reached. It is declared he can sign the bill outright, sign it with an accompanying statement "deploring" the affront to Japanese pride, which might soften the sting of exclusion, or veto the bill.

It was said on the President's behalf that he is hopeful such a veto could be sustained. Opinion in Congress, however, is that it cannot.

Reports of the unusual homeward movement of Japanese from Pacific ports, with a view to hasty marriage and return, have resulted in many queries as to the eligibility of non-immigrants to admission after temporary absence.

The following ruling was made today by the experts who assisted in drawing up the bill.

A Japanese desiring to re-enter the United States after a temporary sojourn is admissible if he was lawfully admitted when he first entered this country, and if his sojourn abroad has been temporary within the meaning of the law—six months or less.

OIL JURY TO HEAR OF FALL'S TRANSACTIONS

Washington, May 15.—The work of the special oil grand jury in the District of Columbia Supreme Court was slowed up again today through the failure of a number of witnesses from distant points to reach Washington. A dozen or more are under subpoena. Some of them are expected here tomorrow from New Mexico, summoned in connection with the investigation of the financial transactions of Albert B. Fall during the time the leases of the naval oil reserves were granted to Harry F. Sinclair and Edward L. Doheny.

FREED, RETAKEN FOR FITCHBURG MURDER

Fitchburg, May 15.—The district court complaint against Andros Spyropoulos, coffee house proprietor and barber, accused of killing Daniel Koules, a trustee of the Greek Orthodox church, in a street fight May 4, was dismissed today, and the defendant was rearrested on a Superior Court warrant, charging murder in the first degree.

The shooting, it is alleged, followed an argument in which the defendant is accused of attacking the Greek church officers because they refused to sanction the christening of Spyropoulos' seven-months-old baby at the exact time desired by the father.

MALT AND HOP SHOP RAIDED IN BRIGHTON

Sergeant Murphy and Patrolman Wiland of the Brighton station raided the malt and hop store run by John Lynch at No. 456 North Beacon street and as a result John had a rather sour good morning to Judge Connelly in Brighton Court today. They found no liquor.

In the centre of the room there was a coal stove, but its fuel consisted of three dry cells and an electric buzzer, with a wire they stated, leading to the front room to a spot under the steel where Lynch was found sitting. The charge of keeping and exposing was continued until May 24.

Mr. W. R. Hearst and the readers of the Boston American, was for nearly twenty years Mr. Hearst's personal representative in New England and chief editorial writer for his newspaper. A Harvard man and attorney, Mr. MacFarland's was by no means the isolated case of a member of the bar dedicating his great abilities to the common good.

On the part of the City of Boston, proceedings were instituted by Corporation Counsel Alexander White, side, in Mayor Peters' administration.

The fight found a valiant supporter in James M. Curley, when the new mayor came into office.

CURLEY AIDS CAUSE.

It was through the Mayor that Arthur D. Hill, Esq., was continued in the matter as special counsel on behalf of the city. Mr. Hill's part in the struggle has been notably thorough and efficient. The present Corporation counsel, E. Mark Sullivan, also has played a distinguished part in the proceedings.

Exhaustive investigations by the Boston American and representatives of the City have been followed by no less than 85 hearings before the Public Utilities Board. The cost of all these investigations and hearings—entirely apart from what the Edison Company must have expended on its own account—has been not less than $140,000.

BEGAN IN 1917.

The fight began as long ago as January, 1917, when Boston householders were paying 10 cents per kilowatt hour.

The claim of this newspaper, as then put forward by Mr. MacFarland, was that the people of Boston were paying "from 20 per cent. to 30 per cent. too much."

The Boston American entered upon the campaign with the same confidence that marked its previous memorable effort for 80-cent gas. That victory, by the way, also brought the annihilation of the old-time Gas Lobby at the State House.

One year after the filing of the petition the Edison Illuminating Company was vigorously urging that further hearings be postponed "until after the war."

"Five years," said Mr. MacFarland at that time, "is a long time. Not one of us may be here at that time.

"A postponement for five years would be virtually a total avoidance of the obligation to answer the questions we have asked.

DAYLIGHT SAVING ISSUE.

"The Edison Company asserts that daylight saving will cost it $250,000 a year. Nobody knows whether the company is telling the truth or is grossly exaggerating the probable loss by daylight saving.

"The City of Cleveland is about the same size as Boston. It has an electric lighting plant owned by the people of Cleveland. That plant has been operating under the daylight saving plan for a year and a half. During all that time it has been charging 3 cents for its electricity, while the private company of Boston has been charging 10 cents."

Mayor Curley, looking for an early end of the pending dispute and litigation, called the anticipated result "extremely satisfactory."

"The annual saving to the people up to the time when the Keney schedule goes into operation," the Mayor said, "will be at the rate of $5,000,000.

"After the Keney schedule becomes effective $1,500,000 additional will be saved to this community."

City Councilor James A. Watson, who rallied to support of the Council from time to time as more money was required to push the fight, had looked, he said, for "an even more generous compromise offer." Councilor Watson felt, however, he said, that the offer should be accepted.

"It is a substantial concession," Mr. Watson said, "to force from such powerful interests."

HERE IS THE SNAPPIEST GIRL AT RADCLIFFE

MISS LOUISE RAPOPORT

A Dorchester girl is the brightest freshman at Radcliffe!

Miss Rapoport, whose home is at No. 127 Geneva avenue, has the distinction of being the only member of her class to become a First Group scholar. To make the first group a Freshman must attain the highest mark given in four of the five courses that she takes.

Miss Rapoport takes an active interest in other things besides books. She has had parts in the various dramatic productions at the College, and will dance in the Outdoor Idler production to be given Thursday night. She is very popular with the other students at Radcliffe and with the younger set generally. Miss Rapoport is one of the youngest members of her class.

Hajoo Club Meets

A meeting the Hajoo Club, composed of members of the firm of H. A. Johnson Company, will be held tonight. Frank R. Shepard, former president of the National Bakers' Association, and H. D. Lukins, secretary of the New England Bakers' Association, will speak.

LYNN BUSINESS MEN PROTEST EDISON RATES

Complaint Filed With Public Utilities Against Electric Light Changes

Eugene W. Mitchell of Lynn has filed a complaint with the Department of Public Utilities against the rates charged for electricity by the Edison Electric Illuminating Co. of Boston. The petition contains more than 100 names, including the large hotels and department stores of the city. Most of these customers are served under schedules C, D and G.

Mr. Mitchell in his petition states that it was expected that the complaint of these customers would be heard in connection with the petition of the Mayor of Boston. This appears not to be feasible at the present time, and he is therefore filing this independent complaint.

The case of the complainants was prepared for presentation under the rates in force previous to February 1, 1924. The changes in methods of charging put in force by the company after that date will render some readjustment and additional work in preparing the evidence which the complainants desire to submit.

Mr. Mitchell has asked the commission to proceed with hearings on the complaint at as early a date as possible.

The prayer of the petition declares that the rates charged by the Edison Company are in many respects unjust, unreasonable and discriminatory, and are greatly in excess of the prices charged in many other cities, and because of these prices the business of the petitioners suffers a serious handicap.

Ill and cross last night—
DR. CALDWELL'S
SYRUP PEPSIN
brought vigor by morning

How To Keep A Child Healthy

A GENERATION ago parents thought that sickness was a part of a child's life, but we know better now. The secret is in the food the mother allows the child to eat, and in watching that elimination occurs regularly two or three times a day. Mrs. J. Russell of 19,141 Havana Ave., Detroit, Mich., keeps her family of wo young children in perfect health with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and Mrs. R. L. Smith of 519 Maple Ave., East Pittsburg, Pa., says her family of three children have never been sick a day since giving them Syrup Pepsin.

A Substitute for Physics

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a scientific compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and suitable aromatics. The formula is on every package. You will find you do not have to force children to take it, and it is much better for them than castor oil, calomel or coal-tar drugs like phenolphthalein even if covered with sugar or chocolate. Syrup Pepsin is mild and gentle in action and your child will have an easy passage without griping or strain. It does not contain narcotics, and you can give it with absolute safety to an infant at the breast.

"Magic" in a Teaspoonful

Every store that sells medicines sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. Give half a teaspoonful to any ailing baby or child at night when you put it to bed and you will find a happy, laughing youngster in the morning. Take Syrup Pepsin yourself when constipated, and give it to any member of the family young or old, for any ailment due to constipation, such as biliousness, headache, lack of appetite, sleeplessness, bad breath, cankers, fever sores, indigestion, and to break up fevers and colds. Stop that first sneeze or sniffle and you will have a healthy winter.

ROYAL DIGNITY SPOILS DANCE FOR WALES

Prince, Displeased, Ceases Gliding at Ball After Talk With King

London, May 15 (I.N.S.).—Queen Mary's rigid insistence that the Prince of Wales uphold the royal dignity apparently spoiled the evening for the Prince of Wales at the state ball in Buckingham Palace, according to gossip today among some of the persons who attended.

Prince of Wales

During the early evening the Prince and his brother, the Duke of York, danced frequently and mingled freely with the guests that crowded the grand ballroom. King George and Queen Mary sat apart. The Queen was seen to speak to the King, who, in turn, beckoned to the Prince. Wales bowed and stood before his father, fidgeting nervously. The King spoke briefly, after which the Prince bowed and withdrew to a position behind the royal dais. After that the Prince did not dance. Later he was seen lurking on the edge of the throng, evidently displeased with the restrictions placed upon him.

The ball is described by those who attended it as a gorgeous display, but lacking in regal dignity owing to overcrowding. There were more than 2,000 guests present, including Frank B. Kellogg, the United States Ambassador and the whole embassy staff.

HERRIOT HITS AT U. S. EXCLUSION OF JAPS

Paris, May 15 (I.N.S.).—Edouard Herriot, radical socialist leader, who will probably succeed Raymond Poincare of France, declared today France is opposed to America's Japanese exclusion policy.

Writing in L'Information, M. Herriot said:

"It is curious, almost dramatic, that the nineteenth century should witness a great power, in some respects the most liberal in the world, openly avow principles concerning black and yellow races against which our French conception of humanity, equality and unity protests."

MISSISSIPPI AFTER BIG RAINEY TAXES

Jackson, Miss., May 15.—Hearing of testimony in connection with the proceedings to collect inheritance taxes from the heirs of the Paul Rainey estate, said to be valued at from $25,500,000 to $40,000,000, was postponed by the Mississippi Commission until June 17. Mr. Rainey, widely known big game hunter, died last year while at sea enroute to South Africa. The heirs aver they should pay Mississippi inheritance taxes only on property in this State, but the commission seeks to collect on the whole estate.

Rehoboth Beach, May 15.—Many letters and telegrams continue to arrive for Grover C. Bergdoll, the American draft evader, who has been missing from Rehoboth since April.

His intimates say they would not be surprised if Bergdoll turned up at some port in the United States one of these days.

NEW LAW RESENTED BY PHARMACISTS

Washington, May 15 (I.N.S.).—Members of pharmaceutical societies of Rochester, Syracuse, Albany and other New York cities have lodged protests with the United States Labor Department against the most recent ruling of immigration authorities at Ellis Island, which they claim is a slur on their profession.

Immigration authorities have ruled that pharmacy is not a recognized profession, and that foreign born persons following that vocation are not permitted entry into this country under the provision of the immigration laws. They are subject to the regular quota restrictions, it was held.

HUSBAND SAID 'WHY NOT TRY IT'

Wife Said She Would. Result, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well and Strong

East Hardwick, Vermont.—"Last winter I was not able to do any work at all. I had backache, headache, stomachache, and was sick all the time for six months. I've heard about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers, and my husband said to me, 'Why don't you try it?' So I said I would, and he went and got me a dozen bottles. It has done me more good than I can ever tell, and my friends say, 'What have you done to yourself? You look so well.' I tell them it is the Vegetable Compound that makes me so well and strong. There is no more suffering with backache and pains. I will tell every one what it has done for me."—Mrs. Thos. Primo, Route No. 2, E. Hardwick, Vermont.

48-HOUR LAW IS IGNORED BY R. I. MILLS

Sensational Deadlock in Senate Shows No Signs of Being Broken

Providence, R. I., May 15.—Unless Democratic and Republican leaders can somehow get together in conference on the interest of public peace there appears every prospect that the Rhode Island State Senate will establish a record by remaining in session until December 31, the end of the term for which its members were elected.

In the meantime there will be a new election, and once again the Lavender 48-hour bill for women and children in the cotton mills will hold the center of the stage as one of the matters of chief concern.

The Lavender law, according to its own provisions, becomes effective on June 1.

It may be the means of bringing before the courts the several matters which have been brought into discussion by last Friday night's session of the State Senate.

Textile mills, as at present advised, will pay no more attention to the Lavender 48-hour law on June 1 than they will pay to it on May 15, or on an other day.

Governor Flynn is that situation will call upon the enforcement officers to make arrests—and the matter will be before the courts.

As this dispatch is written both Democrats and Republicans seem determined that what the Democrats call a "battle for human liberties in Rhode Island" must be fought to a finish.

There is some talk that the leaders of the two political parties are on the eve of a conference which will attempt an agreement, but men who talk of such a conference admit their inability to name names or designate the place where such a meeting is to be held.

NO WONDER POLICE ARE DAZED

FREDERICK OAKES (ON LEFT) AND TWIN BROTHER, HENRY

Henry was haled to court for alleged violation of the traffic laws in Malden square. He declared he was in bed at the time and then produced his twin brother, who also said he was in bed when the traffic violation took place. This mixed things up so much that the judge dismissed the case.

'WOUNDED' FLIV BACKS 2 MILES TO GET HOME

Worcester Man's Auto. Smashed in Taxi Crash, Makes the Distance

Worcester, May 15.—When indigency creeps with an artery-hardening hand over Arthur Vigneault's flivver and it creaks its last sad breath of gas, then Arthur will stuff it and place the remains in his front parlor.

A noble hack is that of Arthur Vigneault's. Blind, with a caved-in wishbone and two broken arches, but with sturdy heart still beating beneath its hood and dent, the ancient chariot nevertheless staggered home with Arthur riding triumphantly behind the wheel.

But it didn't stagger forward on its painful homeward route. It staggered backward—for two miles—before victory was won and the Vigneault domicile couched.

Everything was going along fine, including the chariot, until Arthur nudged it into a taxi at Pleasant square to avoid a street car.

The result of the nudge was tragic. The noble hack drooped limply, then crashily. Arthur described its ruination as multiple injuries. Specifically he found a broken wishbone, broken headlights, one tire blown and another gone.

But while the hack was down it was not out. Arthur pressed a nervous foot on the gas button. The car leaped. But it didn't leap forward. It leaped in a circle. Then it kept on leaping in another circle. After deep thought Arthur decided that wouldn't do at all.

He tried backing. That seemed to work all right. So he backed some more. He backed for two miles until the darkened hulk of his home loomed up in the early morning hour. The suffering chariot had retraced the steps all the way home.

DUCHESS NOW HOPES TO SAVE MUIR'S LIFE

Sees Chance of Success as Appeal From Death Sentence Comes Up

Montreal, Que., May 15 (Universal Service).—The efforts of the Duchess De Richelieu of American birth, to save the life of Walter Muir, a young New Yorker, sentenced to die here on July 12 for murder, give promise today of success.

Through the aid of the Duchess, who has contributed generously in a woman, gives hope that Muir's appeal also will be granted.

an appeal of his case is to be heard today, following a reprieve last February that came to Muir within eight hours of the time he was to have been hanged.

The Duchess became convinced that Muir was innocent of actual murder. The crime for which he was sentenced to die was the killing on September 22 last of Henry Lavigueur, whom Muir shot in a hotel at Valleyfield in an argument over a hunting dog. Both men had been drinking, the testimony showed.

Muir, it is declared, had been engaged in bootlegging and had gone to Valleyfield to get a supply of liquor.

There was a third man, a cripple, in the party and he also took part in the argument. Muir's defense was that Lavigueur was about to strike the cripple, when he fired to save him.

Commutation of the death sentence Wednesday of Alfred Dagenais, condemned for the murder of a woman, gives hope that Muir's appeal also will be granted.

BEWARE OF INDICAN!

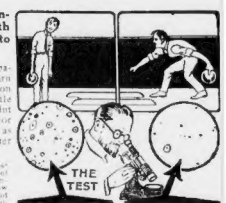
the poison sign of constipation, warn health authorities — what to do.

THE danger of constipation is its poison, warn physicians. This poison is pumped into every little muscle and every little joint in your body. Beware! for it has the same effect as Carbolic Acid or any other poison.

Do you dare to make a test to prove this? Three out of four constipated men and women, under such a test, show the presence of INDICAN and Indican is the sign doctors look for to find out if your blood is poisoned.

Carter's Little Liver Pills will, like ordinary laxatives, not only "physic" the stomach, liver and intestines quickly, but also drive the INDICAN away.

Make This Test: Have analysis made of your specimen, and if the report reports the presence of INDICAN—or if you can "feel" how poisoned you are because of bad stomach, no appetite, foul breath and sour taste—immediately start taking Carter's Little Liver Pills. Then take another test made and see how the INDICAN disappears. Now that's a real foundation. Free from pimples and blackheads, comes back—you can EAT like a kid and feel that FIT. It's more value—not claims—that makes Carter's Little Liver Pills used for 67 years by millions of people all over the world, in the purely regular preparation and complete no drugs of any nature. Insist on getting Carter's Little Liver Pills which contain the identical ingredients that have made them famous. Money refunded if results are not satisfactory.



Is it constipation that weakens your physical power? INDICAN indicates the poison without guessing—ask your doctor.

Same person after taking Carter's Little Liver Pills for only a few days—note the clean, normal specimen. FREE FROM INDICAN.

TWIN BROTHERS AMAZE POLICE IN AUTO CASE

Patrolman Campbell of Malden—sometimes traffic officer—is a bewildering maze.

Patrolman Cass of the same city stopped an autoist in Malden square for ignoring traffic police. Another autoist rolled into the square and made a similar break. Case turned the first one over to Campbell.

But Campbell's "prisoner" was too quick for him and stepped into his car, then breezed away. Both policemen gave chase in a taxi. The car was found abandoned some distance away.

Then the policemen learned it was a car stolen from Frederick Schriver of No. 336 Massachusetts avenue, Boston.

All they knew about the driver was that he had disguised an operator's license in the name of Henry Oakes.

So they hauled up Henry Oakes of No. 56 North Linden street, Boston. Oakes appeared in Municipal Court, charged with the auto theft. He declared he was in bed at home at the time. Patrolman Campbell took another look.

"That's the man," he declared.

But Oakes produced his twin brother Frederick. They were alike as two peas—even to their clothes and trembling sick headaches.

Not only was Henry in bed at the time of the Malden affair, they asserted, but Frederick also was at home.

So the court dismissed the case.

Jays BOSTON TEMPLE PLACE ELEVEN

"Jays for My New Clothes"

So says many a College Miss who has passed her Clothes-Exam "cum laude."

The wise college miss knows that clothes as well as books are important. Not necessarily expensive clothes, but right clothes, well chosen. The kind that makes her an attractive part of the picture on campus, in classroom, at sports, Class Day or Commencement.

Jays have the sweaters, blouses, skirts that "go together," all-occasion frocks, coats, scarfs, sport suits—the type that expresses Youth in its heyday. We're sure you'll pass the clothes exam with credit if you "prepare at Jays."

East Leads West in Derby Winners

Eastern sportsmen are confident that the section will triumph once more in the Kentucky Derby, the blue ribbon event of the American turf. This confidence is born of eight victories in the last ten races. The only Western owned horses to turn back the Eastern stars were Old Rosebud in 1913 and Behave Yourself in 1921.

Here are the other eight winners of the last decade—eastern owned horses:

1915	Regret
1916	George Smith
1917	Omar Khayyam
1918	Exterminator
1919	Sir Barton
1920	Paul Jones
1922	Morvich
1923	Zev

One of the satisfying things about smoking PIPPINS is that you can get them anywhere and everywhere. Always fresh and packed full of satisfaction and fragrant aroma.

We make so many millions of them and you smokers use them so rapidly that PIPPINS never have a chance to get stale. And the quality—the unequaled quality—is always preserved. Always the superior Sumatra wrapper, the clean long filler.

For men who like a GOOD mild cigar nothing can take the place of PIPPINS at the price

The Beautiful, but Bluntly Honest Story of a Boston Girl

By ELENORE MEHERIN

Seething Life of a Lovely Boston Girl of This Strange Today

SHE shrank against the wall unable to take her eyes from the blaze of his.

In the stark cruelty of the moment she saw within another man—Tufts. And Tufts glanced at them and, his expression narrowing as though it said:

"Ah—I see!"

Barry crossed the threshold pulling the door sharply. The [illegible] to a ominous amber and the green of waters, pale but lighted. The hearty smote her, sent a melting through her heart. And she was crying. But she wished him not to know.

Finally he said: "Why did you do this?"

"I don't know, you see."

"You didn't have me! You thought I went to treat dinner. Lord! I can't let you stop to see."

"I didn't. I wanted to see you. I thought you'd be pleased. We could have a ride." Now that her voice was found that it came [illegible] and [illegible] she looked to him. "Do you see I never thought you'd take it so you frightened me—"

The [illegible] lowered turned [illegible] the coldness [illegible] the searing eyes. "Lord! Add lies to it!"

It struck her sharp like a sword. like lightning splitting her mind. She snapped the door of the car, [illegible] to drive on. He put her back. She flushed in a frenzy. "Let go! You let me go! I will—" She had a wild [illegible] to the edge of the cliff hurl herself over. [illegible] arm bound h[illegible]. She tried to beat it off. "I will! You let me go. I don't care—"

He said atonily: "Don't get excited. You can go home if you want. We can start now. It's up to you."

She bunched down, covering her face with her hands. "You're cruel! Oh so cruel! I didn't know why. I was wild. Everything. Frightened. Oh, now you're hating me, you look so. I wouldn't do this to you. No matter what you did! No— Let me go. You can't stop me. No—hold me here! How long" When you're gone I can come back alone — anywhere—

"[illegible] Coward!" And suddenly turned her head against the seat, terrible little moans rushing to her lips.

He put his arm about her. Well—this won't do any good. No use now. Don't cry about it! Why—well, it doesn't matter. I don't care. I never thought you'd do a thing like that—why should you? I've tried to be square, haven't I?

His words drummed down to her across a century of pain. "I don't know how you could! I've never lied to you. But you'd come sneaking down there—"

"Oh, don't—"

Well—you did, anyway. Tufts saw it. It's shameful.

She put his arm from her. And now a calm that was heavier and more unbearable than frenzy came like a weight. It was a [illegible] and she drabbed and had [illegible] she stood to it and to him.

"I can't stand this. That's all. We can't get away with it. And each time that he reached her coming, he seemed the more [illegible] more infuriated. "What right had you? How could you? Lord—it's awful!" I never dreamed you could stoop to this—"

She gave a little broken cry. "Oh." And did I? Oh—you think I dreamed that I could ever be [illegible] to [illegible]? Oh, do you? A year ago?—Even months ago—

"Do you? I wonder if you think that?"

He [illegible] his mouth, sinking his teeth against it.

She went on. "No! now you say I stoop to things. Oh, yes! And you hate me—"

He slumped down heavily, pounding his steering wheel with his fist. "Yes, you're right. It's my fault—all of it. Lord!"

And after a long while. "Well—it's done now."

Each sentence bridged between them a wall of cold, insensate thing. She felt driven into a void an empty desolation.

"Take me home—don't say any more. I see well."

He kept pounding his fist like a dirge. "I don't see what to do." She repeated helplessly: "Never mind—oh let us go anywhere."

But as they drove along a [illegible] calmness passed hotly through her. She whispered, "Barry. Barry."

He said: "Well."

"I don't know what to do—you feel on [illegible] the same—"

"Don't know what of it—"

And to-morrow.

"I'll tell I don't care—I can't help it now.

BAM! Winthrop Perkins is getting his! After five years of married life Winnie has to [illegible] grass widower or a late latch-key. And all because he didn't tell his wife The Full Story of His Past.

Win has not accounted much of a past, as one is inclined to. How did Hattie [illegible] to it? But before [illegible] there were one or two little episodes. Particularly that affair with the girl at the cigar stand [illegible] the hotel in Summer before he and Hattie were engaged. Nothing very bad, I guess, but Loe White saw them Up in the City Together. No harm [illegible] it, those [illegible] could have been steadier than Win has been since he married.

Oh, yes, of course, the boys have their jokes on him now and then. He took that little girl, who works at Cole's office, home in his flivver pretty nearly every night for a while. But it was only a hock out of his way. There was nothing wrong in that.

Win hasn't been frank because only a fool would be frank with Hattie. Not that she hasn't a brain and heart, but she's dang them wrongly.

Hattie is a good woman and her feelings are badly hurt. The world is filled with good women whose feelings are badly hurt for the same reason. They [illegible] their husband's conduct.

Bears Relax Efforts to Dislodge Holdings in Wall Street and Prices Work Highe

ANACONDA OFF TO FRESH LOW SINCE 1920

In addition to the New York Stock Exchange, the inability of the bears to dislodge anything of consequence, abandonment of operations for the fall in the second hour and a short covering movement developed in the closing hour, in which the average price level was lifted slightly above that of Wednesday.

The better tone was quickly utilized by the pool in Philadelphia & Reading Coal to mark up this favorite to a new high for the year at 53¾, or 2¾ points. It was 13¾ points above the low registered a few months ago.

Declaration of an extra dividend of 1 per cent, in addition to the regular semi-annual dividend on Atlantic Gulf & West Indies, was also continued, the stock selling off over four points following the publication of the news.

Call money renewed at 3½ per cent.

Anaconda sold at a new low since 1920, 37¾, against 1924 high record made by that share. Shares Baltimore, Reading, Southern Railway, Central Foundry, Kansas City Southern and Issues until 1½ points.

In trading on the Boston Stock Exchange this week, one or more sessions, Amoskeag, Mississippi River Power preferred and Vermont & Massachusetts. Shoe at 30¾ set a new high on the movement. Mississippi Telephone sold unchanged, while American Telephone yielded a small fraction.

U. S. Government Bonds at Fresh Highs for Year

Brisk activity in U. S. government obligations, many of which sold at the year's highest levels, monopolized interest in New York bond trading. The dearth of new financing in which institutions could turn for the use of their surplus funds stimulated accumulation of Liberty bonds. Frequent inquiry developed for blocks of $100,000 or more attested to the heavy volume of bank purchasing.

Three issues, the 4¼s and third and fourth 4¼s, reached new top prices for the year, while the first 4¼s and Treasury 4½s duplicated their previous highs.

Prices of corporation items drifted irregularly, with Wilson & Co. and Virginia Carolina obligations moving lower.

Wall St. Gossip

MORE THAN 85 per cent. of bankers holding out of Wilson & Co. have agreed to extend time of payment for six months.

ATLANTIC COAST LINE declared 1 per cent. extra dividend on common.

RECEIVERS for Texas & Pacific have been discharged. J. L. Lancaster, one of the receivers, is now president of the road.

ST. LOUIS SOUTHWESTERN reports decrease in receipts for first week of May of $72,493 compared with like 1923 period.

PRESIDENT MOUNT of Advance Rumely reports farm implement manufacturers selling twice as much equipment abroad as a year ago, with home business under normal.

DIRECTOR DEERING of International Harvester thinks 1924 outlook is for better business than in 1923.

VICKERS, LTD., of London passed dividend on ordinary shares.

TEXAS CO. has cut bunker fuel oil in New York.

PRESIDENT ARKELL of Beech-Nut Packing says: "We expect to show larger earnings than we did last year."

MACK TRUCK net earnings for initial 1924 quarter were only slightly below those for like period of 1923.

STOCKS for two years have gradually been taken out of brokerage houses and placed in banks until all Wall Street is looking at this one argument to make a bull market.

ECONOMIC conditions are the only considerations that can turn the market.

BULL argument of today namely— no stocks in brokerage houses—may prove to be the big bear argument of tomorrow.

IN MUSICAL TREAT FOR RADIO FANS

'DREAM GIRL' SHOW ON AIR TONIGHT

SAYS "DICKIE" MADE GIRL BANDIT STEAL

The opening performance of "The Dream Girl" tonight will be broadcast direct from the stage of the Shubert-Wilbur Theatre by Station WNAC, The Shepard Stores, starting at 8:15 p. m.

"The Dream Girl" is a new musical show written by Victor Herbert and Rida Johnson Young and produced by Messrs. Lee and J. J. Shubert. The leading feminine role will be played by Fay Bainter, who made such a hit with her characterization of Mis Tic in "East Is West." This is however, her first appearance in Boston in musical comedy and promises to be a big success.

Featured in "The Dream Girl" is Walter Woolf, who captured so many Bostonian hearts by his recent portrayal in "The Lady in Ermine." Mr. Woolf will be particularly remembered by the radio audience, for not only was his former play broadcast in its entirety, but he also gave two song recitals from the studios at WNAC during his engagement in Boston, and his excellent baritone voice has won for him a host of admirers.

20 MUSICAL NUMBERS.

Two other featured members of the cast are Billy B. Van, who will play the part of Billy Van Dyke, and Georgie LeMaire, who will play the part of Wilson Addison. Both names are familiar to theatre-goers as those of two very well known comedians.

"The Dream Girl," a musical romance in three acts, has been adapted from the play, "The Road to Yesterday." It includes twenty musical numbers, of which "Dream Girl" itself is one of the most captivating, which makes this show a particularly good one to broadcast.

The following is a synopsis of the play, which the Boston American feels will aid the radio audience in following the broadcast:

The action of the first scene takes place in London in the year 1923. The setting is in the studio of Will Levison, a young American artist who is entertaining a party of American girls, who are abroad to study the historical attire of England.

ACTS OUT HER DREAM.

Elsbeth (played by Fay Bainter), one of the girls, meets Jack Warren (Walter Woolf), an American artist who has been in England competing in the international games. Elsbeth has a feeling that she has met Warren before, possibly in an earlier incarnation. That night, she falls into a troubled sleep.

In the second act, which is in three scenes, her dream is acted out. The audience is brought back to the fifteenth century and meets Elsbeth, who has strayed from her castle to a ruse inn in the country.

Outside of the inn, there is a disturbance and Warren, who appears as a knight, comes to the rescue of Elsbeth. Later, her guardian appears and takes her back to the castle.

Her guardian is a selfish tyrant, who means to marry Elsbeth because of her wealth, but at a critical moment, Warren appears and again rescues Elsbeth, fighting his way with her out of the castle.

In Act III, the time of the play is again 1923 and the scene is back again in Will Levison's studio. This act shows what happened after Elsbeth's dream, but you must hear for yourself how this interesting [illegible] ended.

WORKS NEAR BOSTON

More than six harsh years of suffering have been put behind her and Dickie is fast beginning to forget even more into her life, despite Dick Robertson and his "way with the girls." Dickie's mother, as we understood, has admitted his part in the broken life of this woman.

Dickie's career in the strange triangle was planted in 1917 by Robertson, when he met the girl who never had a "Dickie" before.

To a girl who never has known male companionship, a "fellow" is her one great ambition.

She got her fellow. It was Dickie Robertson and it was in June. She was deliriously happy—for one week only. Then Dickie went away.

She searched him out when she learned her condition. Robertson, who declared he was cold, scornful. He laughed at her demand that he marry her.

The young mother later had him bring to court and he was ordered to pay $4 a week toward support of the child, declared to be his. Some of these payments he paid. Some times he neglected to pay. Court appearances in this regard were frequent.

Then the young mother met a Vermont man, owner of a bowling alley in a Vermont town. He asked her to marry him and the load on her heart grew heavier.

But she finally told him the entire story of her past. The Vermonter moved readily to the occasion. He swept her tearful confession aside impatiently, and took her in his arms.

Then he determined to make Robertson pay. Three hundred dollars was the price Robertson could buy release for from the girl and her daughter. If Robertson should produce $300 before the wedding day—set for next Wednesday—the release would be forthcoming.

Robertson agreed, according to the young mother, declaring he would "do anything necessary to get that money." She believes he decided on banditry as a means of raising the money. And she believes he used Leona Sheehan, his sweetheart, as a tool.

But the arrest of the bobbed hair bandit and her accomplice, Robertson, dispelled any hope of the $300 being realized. The girls trusted to oblivion when she read of Dickie Robertson's arrest with Leona Sheehan.

STANDS BY HER

She feared, too, as she wept on the newspaper account, exclusive in that the arrests might blast her hope for happiness. But the Vermonter again promised equal to the occasion. They will be married and will go to Vermont to live.

Today this woman, once more happy, told her story:

"I pay all of my troubles to the foolishness of young girls who trust men too far. Most girls are innocent little things, and when they meet a man they like, they are easy prey. I was such a girl. I hope that some others will read my story and profit by my misfortune.

"In June, 1917, I told a girl chum I was terribly lonesome. I had not had any "fellows" like so many of the girls, but I craved such company and excitement.

who, she assures, should bear Robertson's name.

The name of this woman is unknown to the American. She has talked with only one American representative. She is working near Boston.

But, for the sake of her child, and because she is about to be married, the American is withholding her identity.

"She said she knew just the young fellow I ought to meet. His name was Dickie Robertson and he lived in Woburn. He was good looking and a good dancer. She suggested a party of four for the next night.

HER MISTAKE

"Foolishly, I decided that I knew more about the world than my experienced girl chum. I called Dickie on the phone and made a date for him to come and see me the next night.

"Right there was where I made my biggest mistake. I should have gone with the crowd. Dickie came over. I was excited and flustered. Here was a fellow at last. No more evenings alone. When Dickie went home, I was the happiest girl in the world. I was in love with him. I thought he was in love with me.

"Four consecutive nights he came to see me. Then he went away. I could not understand why he did not return. But he had gone west.

"Then I made my terrible discovery. To Dickie I confided with flutter ing heart. There was nothing else to do. I was sure he would marry me, but he refused. He more than refused; he heaped insults upon me. He denied the child.

"I went to my parents and told them. My father took me to Dickie. Again he scorned me. My father was furious, but Dickie still refused marriage.

"So we had Dickie taken to court. The case was put over until after my baby was born. Then I told my story to the court to Judge Bruce. Dickie was ordered to pay me $4 a week. He took it to a higher court, but the decision was upheld.

"Dickie kept letting the payments slip. We had another court scene and he started paying again.

"Two years later he called me and proposed marriage—after two years. But I did not trust him any more. I refused. Then I met the Vermont man.

"He offered me a home. He offered to adopt my little daughter. He offered me all the happiness I have longed for. I accepted it."

New England Can Beat Germany on Fairs

The Boston American Endorses Proposition for a Merchandise Fair in Boston in August

The Boston Herald proposes a Merchants' Fair for August. Here is the Herald's editorial:

Why Not a Merchandise Fair Here in August?

What kind of an idea would it be for Boston to have, say in the last two weeks in August, a merchandising fair, like that which has made Leipzig famous, for the purpose of acquainting our people and the army of automobile tourists who may be attracted here at that season with the merit and excellence of our New England products?

We should not propose the erection of any new buildings, the hiring of any halls, the entailing of any large expense, but rather that from Washington street, for certain hours of the day during this period, vehicular traffic should be excluded, and its surface turned into a bazaar with special reference to New England manufactures and agricultural products. If our historical societies want to have open house at the same time, showing our visitors the scenic points, the museums and the monuments of the past, so much the better. Make it a time for people to come to Boston and to see New England. Why not?

This is the year for it. We are furnishing the Republican candidate for President of the United States, something that will attract attention to New England, and to an extent visitors to our state. But the fair should be in no sense political—perish the thought! What we do need is to stimulate our own capacity for selling New England products, as an adjunct to a healthy manufacturing life, upon which all else depends. Our own people ought to know more about our own products than they do as a basis for interesting the outsider. Think it over!

No other section of the United States has so good an opportunity to transform what is normally a dull season into a very busy one. This plan would not work in Baltimore or Philadelphia, because home residents are running away in the summer, and no outsiders except on business bent are attracted thereto. With us the situation is different. To this corner of the land pleasure seekers flock. Let us seize the opportunity which their coming presents. Let us tell the world that we are on the map in more senses than one. They will know where we are in the political leadership of the nation. Let them find out that we are equally alert industrially.

The Boston American is happy to endorse this proposition and pledges itself to give freely of its columns and of editorial and news support in Mr. Hearst's coast to coast newspapers to help bring people to Beautiful New England in August or at any other time.

The American believes that all the newspapers of New England will work with a united purpose to help any measure calculated to advance this great community in the eyes of the world.

Despatches from Cologne indicate that the Germans made such a tremendous success of the Spring Leipzig Merchants' Fair that they have packed the whole tremendous exhibit of the fruits of German industry onto trains and shipped it to Cologne.

Why Cologne?

Cologne is the Ruhr. Cologne is the center of the British occupational army of the Ruhr and it borders the seat of the French occupational army.

The writer visited Cologne this Spring and found more Englishmen, Frenchmen and Americans in Cologne hotels than Germans.

Germany is carrying her aluminum ware, her textiles, her metal fabrics, her printing, her radio and her art works into the heart of the enemy. She is fighting for business.

Germany does not build fair grounds for her merchant fairs. Germany simply houses her goods in every vacant building available and provides such detailed and courteous hospitality that the enemy is glad to see and to buy.

New England can beat Germany.

"George-ing Them"—

Foolish, but Not Serious

Four Senators, Pepper, Moses, Norris and McLean, all named George, and Senator Walter F. George of Georgia, have all joined "The Society for the Prevention of Calling Pullman Car Porters 'George.'"

The objection to that practice is not clear or sound. A good Pullman car porter is a good citizen and a useful public servant. However, the porters won't object to the activities of the society. The porters will tell you, "The man that calls you George the most often is the one that will give you the smallest tip."

If Pullman porters can stand the foolish familiarity, the Senatorial and other "Georges" can stand it. Let them think of George Washington and be comforted.

GIVE THE OTHER FELLOW A CHANCE TO TELL WHAT HE KNOWS

It is easy to get into the habit of talking about yourself and the things in which you are most interested.

You have known persons who never carry on a conversation for long without turning it to one of their hobbies, and you know that you soon tire of them.

Your friends would get tired of you if you followed such a course; and, now that you think of it, aren't you as bad as those of whom you have grown so tired?

Give the other fellow a chance to talk is a pretty good rule.

If you listen and learn it ought to satisfy you.

At least before you turn the conversation, you might listen until he has given what he knows about certain things.

If you could learn the fact about the man in a crowd who says the least, you would find, in a majority of instances, that the silent one is the most successful in his undertakings.

The man who sits in a corner of the smoking compartment and says just enough to get the other men talking is getting information, of possible value to him.

Yet don't be foolish and talk too much about private matters in the smoker.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

A BACHELOR doesn't see any harm in light love-making—so long as it doesn't lead to light housekeeping.

* * *

Fortunately, there is no inoculation against the love-germ which will keep a man immune forever—not even the vaccine of cynicism.

Helen Rowland

A good real estate salesman is one who can draw such an alluring picture of a suburban bungalow that even a confirmed bachelor will be inspired to go and look for a garden-rake and a wife.

* * *

One reason why a bachelor's heart grows so callous in his old age is that it has gone all through his life bumping along on skid-chains.

* * *

The single-track marriage is always meeting with mishaps; as soon as a couple learn to run on a double track, keep out of each other's way, and watch the danger signals, there is little chance of a wreck.

* * *

When a woman runs her fingers through his hair, somehow a man always trembles a little at the thought of what happened to Samson.

* * *

It takes almost transcendent wifely devotion for a woman to put the price of a new hat into a wedding present for one of her husband's old flames.

* * *

To a bachelor, the sweetest thing on earth, next to love's young dream, is to wake up after it and find himself still single.

A "sheik" is the dashing sort of hero every husband fancies he might have been if he had never married a "vamp" is the fascinating sort of creature every woman thinks she might have been if it hadn't been for her conscience.

* * *

A woman sometimes plans how she will make a man "suffer" but a man can make a woman suffer just by acting naturally.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

FAIN am I to go out from the little home nest in most any direction; north, south, east or west, I would start for Hong Kong on one lonely, slick dime, just to be out of town around house-cleaning time! There's a time, so I've heard, to be merry and glad, there's a time to be good and a time to be bad; but I argue in vain with my well-meaning spouse, there's no time that was meant for a wife to clean house! All in vain I insist that the window-panes shine, that the carpets are bright and the curtains look fine; though my logic is sure and my method is kind, every Spring she devotes this single-track mind. When she walks through the house with a far-away look as she peers in each cuddy and closet and nook, though I cheerily claim that the whole place looks prime, in my soul I concede that its house-cleaning time. For I know she is bent upon duster and mop and there isn't a chance for her labors to stop until everything's turned topsy-turvy and then, she will hustle to get it in order again. Oh, this civilized world is no doubt very fine, but sometimes for the African jungle I pine. Just sometimes I'm athirst for a wild desert scene where there isn't a house for a woman to clean! For I can't find my books or my pipe or my hat and I'm twice as disgruntled as Tabby, the cat. There are days when I long for the Stone Age again, when no ladies cleaned house just to torment the men; days when Earth rolls, as now, without reason or rhyme because wife has declared it is house-cleaning time!

Needs Coat and Dress

Editor Helping Hand:

Could any of your kind readers give me a coat, size 44, and a dress? I am almost on the verge of despair. My husband was taken to the hospital last week, for an operation, and I have got to go out and try to find work myself. I have a sickly girl, age twenty-two, who cannot work. It would break your heart to see my poor husband carried out to a car to take him to the hospital and all the children crying after him. I think if I had a coat I could get work cleaning offices, but I haven't a stitch to wear now, and am awfully discouraged.

MRS. H. J.

Sent Bundle

Editor Helping Hand:

I have sent the bundle to A. R. of Boston and A. A. S. and just now am sending a bundle to E. W. of New Hampshire. I have a brown stroller with a brown top for someone who needs it. I will have a few things more later on, as I intend to move in a couple of weeks. Has anyone a baby cage they have no use for, as I have been offered a bird and have no cage for it?

MRS. E. G. C.

We all are very grateful for all that you are doing. You have been sent the address of Mrs. E. L. P., whose husband has been out of work since Thanksgiving and who badly needs a stroller for the youngest of six children.

Girls' Dresses to Give

Editor Helping Hand:

I have clothes to give away, including girls' dresses about size 12 and shoes, etc. If you have anyone in Quincy they could call and get them.

J. S. G.

Many thanks. You have been sent the address of Mrs. F. D. C., a widow with two children, who lives in Quincy.

I have been a foster mother to some eighty children whom I have helped bring up for the nation besides my own four. I have now taken a three-months fatherless baby girl to care for. Is there some one who could spare a baby carriage for darling Elizabeth Joyce?

MRS. A. B.

Has Warm Overcoat

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a warm overcoat in good condition, size 38 or 40; ten pairs of socks, three shirts, size 14 and 15, and also several good magazines. Please send me the address of some one living near the city. I find I have also one pair of Girl Scout shoes, brand new, size 5½.

MRS. A. W. C.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. W. M., whose husband can make good use of the men's clothing, and of E. B., whom the shoes will just fit.

THE VOICE OF NEW ENGLAND

He Fa ors Fo d

Editor Boston American:

Press dispatches state Senator Norris is blocking the vote on Henry Ford's Muscle Shoals proposition. Why should a $7,500-a-year politician, backed by the commercialized press and newspapers working for British interests, be allowed to block the development of this great project by Mr. Ford which will benefit millions of people?

Mr. Ford's offer was made two years ago. Two years have been wasted.

Senator Norris was one of the filibusters that killed our shipping bill, handing control of our overseas shipping to British interests.

British interests are reported wanting control of Muscle Shoals for power purposes.

Is the senator working this proposition in the interests of foreigners also?

J. E. YOUNG.

DR. FRANK CRANE ON AN IMMIGRANT WHO MADE GOOD

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THERE died the other day in Brooklyn, N. Y., a man named Adolf Gobel.

He was the largest independent manufacturer of provisions in the East. Sixty years ago he was born in Germany. He came to this country at the age of seventeen, almost penniless. He went to work making sausages.

He followed the best and wisest rule that has ever yet been discovered for success; that is, he determined to do what he had to do better than anyone else could do it.

He worked here and became known as the king of the independent sausage and provision manufacturers in the East and, at the time of his death, was reputed to be worth several million dollars.

This man's career is almost typically American.

The typical American is the immigrant. The only "real Americans" are out on the Indian reservations.

Gobel came to this country because it was free from caste, because the doors of opportunity were open, and because life in America was not throttled by ghosts of the past.

One would think that every encouragement should be given this kind of man. On the contrary, the country is full of half-baked Bolshevics who hate this sort of man as the devil hates holy water.

He represents brains, will power, self-control and industry. Against him are lined up the ignorant, the weak, the lazy and the envious.

There is quite an army of these. Some of them are teaching economics in colleges; some of them are spouting about the brotherhood of man, by which they mean that the wastrel should share the profits with the thrifty; some of them are in the national Legislature passing income taxes and surtaxes, the object of which is to cripple and penalize the Gobels and tickle the Bolshevics.

Senator Couzens, in his recent correspondence with Secretary Mellon, said that the high taxes have not hurt business because big business had been expanding and had found no difficulty in obtaining funds for doing so.

The trouble with this half truth, as Otto Kahn pointed out, is that the direct result of the high taxes is to intrench and fortify those who are already in established positions in business, to diminish competition and to discourage newcomers. He says:

"The operations of the surtaxes has increased, and invariably tends to increase, the advantages which large and established concerns have over the adventurous newcomer and pioneer who heretofore was a characteristic and desirable figure in American business."

In other words, angered because thrift, brains and enterprise have succeeded, we seem to be determined that there shall be no more Adolf Gobels or Henry Fords.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON A GREAT MOUNTAIN

By Garrett P. Serviss

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

THERE is pending in Congress a joint resolution which ought to pass unanimously. It concerns American patriotic sentiment, as well as those springs of national greatness which flow from recollection of, and pride in, the first steps of a new people's history—and Americans are a new people, for such they became when first they conquered and settled this unbackneyed, unexplored new world.

The resolution relates to the name of a great American mountain, Mount Tacoma, in the State of Washington, now marked in maps as "Mount Ranier." Since 1894 all attempts to obtain a quasi official restoration of the beautiful and sonorous Indian name, Tacoma, have been smothered by a bureau in Washington called "the National Geographic Board," which appears to be controlled by a narrow spirit of hollow formalism, which becomes mischievous when opposed to wide public interest.

Because a British navigator, Vancouver, sailing along our Pacific coast, ten years after the United States had become an independent nation, chose to bestow upon a snowy peak, which he glimpsed far inland, the name of his friend Ranier, an obscure British officer, whose only connection with our history, as Theodore Roosevelt once wrote, "is that he fought against us when we were an infant nation"—for this reason, forsooth, we are forbidden by the "destructive board" to retain for that great peak, one of the culminating points of our topography, the aboriginal, euphonious and appropriate name of Tacoma, but must forever mark it in our geographies and in the memories of our descendants, with the interloping name which one British sailor, catching sight of it one morning from the sea, and never quite sure of its location, clapped upon it to please and flatter another British sailor of his acquaintance, who never even set eyes on the majestic mountain!

But, says the National Board of Geographic Names," the rights of an explorer must always be respected. Vancouver had the right to name the peak; we should be robbing him and upsetting supersant formulism! if we gave it any other name. Every open-minded reader must see that it is the American people who are robbed.

But there have been other causes operating against the restoration of the name Tacoma, and stiffening the backbone of the geographic board. The chief of these has been local rivalry and jealousy. This was a discreditable thing, but it proved effective. Years ago the twin cities of Tacoma and Seattle were in a neck and neck race. The former thought it derived some benefit from having the great mountain bear the same name. In fact, I think the city was named from the mountain. Seattle wished to deprive its rival of this supposed advantage and fought for the retention of the name Ranier.

But things have changed. Consulting the "population statistics in my pocket diary I perceive that in 1920 Seattle had attained 315,000 inhabitants, and Tacoma 96,000. So Seattle has the victory in the race for civic greatness, as far as that depends upon lustrous and pompous names, but Tacoma is not disgraced, nor destroyed. Now that the old strug gle is past, it would be a graceful act for the victor to withhold all opposition to the restoration of the mountain's cradle-name, and not only that, but to vigorously aid her former rival to do in the matter which she was vainly sought, and by so doing to help bestow a benefit upon the whole country. For it certainly is a benefit when the great features of a land, its mightiest rivers, lakes and mountains bear names that are strictly indigenous.

The geography of our country is too much plastered over with imported names, unAmerican in signification and suggestion Mount Tacoma is one of the most majestic landmarks on this continent. Its vast white form, lifted almost directly from sea-level to a height of 14,400 feet, presents a spectacle of mountain sublimity rarely equalled in any part of the world. Shasta, its Californian sister, has been permitted to retain unchallenged its treasured native name; let equal justice be done to no less deserving Tacoma.
